Important to Stock Brokers.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

Before Hon. Judge Hoffman.

Fro. 18.—Theodore S. Droper against Adolph Klemm.—This is the first of several actions in this Court, brought to enforce contracts for the purchase and sale of stock of the North Carolina Copper Company. It appeared on the trial that Mr. Gamage, a broker, had been employed by the defendant to purchase steck of this company at a given limit, buyer sixty days; that Mr. Gamage made large purchases of different brokers, and among others, two hundred shares of Draper, the plaintiff; that he made entries at the time of the purchase in his book, and that he had purchased on the defendant's account. The contract between Mr. Gamage and Draper was in writing, and signed by each in the usual form of a broker's sale note. It further appeared that after the purchase gamage reported the same to Klemm, who expressed himself matafied; that before the sixty days had expired the stock fell in the market, and is now of but little value; that a tender was made to the 'defendant at the expitation of aftry days, but he refused to receive it. After the plaintiff had rested, the defendant moved to dismiss the somplaint, relying upon the statute of frauds and the stock jobbing act. The case was elaborately argued by the respective counsel, and Mr. Justice Hoffman, in an alaborate opinion, ordered the complaint to be dismissed with costs. This will probably put an end to the other cases. For plaintiff, John Anthon; for defendant, Edwards Pierrepont.

CAMP FIRES OF THE RED MEN; OR, A HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

This tale of "love and arms," by Dr. Orten, is likely to prove a book feature of the season. An eminons author and or ic, who examined the manuscript, pronounced it equal to the best of our India tales.

NOT EXCEPTING COOPER'S, and in some respects superior to any of taem. This high judgment is thus far sustained. In vivid and powerful description—interest which never laga—quiet beauty of diction, and that rare bleeding of pathos and humor—equally charming to old and young grave and gay—this work will challenge comparisor with any recent production. The following are extracts from sone of the notices of the proses:—

From the New York Hersid

An exceedingly happy and faithful pixture of the times of which it treats. The writer hasdinangination, is thoroughly permented with the spirit of our old colonnal society, and is gilted with descriptive powers of it high order. Few works of action have given us more pleasure.

This volume unquestionably excels any book of humor that has ever been published in America; and, as a proof of the fact, we anner the opinions of some of the leading and inducential journals of the country, nearly all of whom have pronounced John Phonix "the great wit of the age."

[From the Utles Herald.]

These sketches are characterized by much humor, and will be four d highly entertaining. The illustrations—capacitally the frontispiace—are worthy of Cruitshank.

[From the Boaton Evening Traveller.]

The volume will make the most serious reader shake his sides at its mirthful delineations of character and szetches of events.

events. [From the Roston Telegraph.]
These sketches are essentially in Punch's vein—more so than any other American writing we are acquainted with. The Lectures on Astronomy, the Review of the New Musical Symphony, and some other things, are equal to anything we have ever seen in Punch.

[From the Philadelphia Pennsylvanian.]
These are a collection of humorous sketches, well calculated to tickle the tancy of the humor loving portion of the human family.

A very dangerous volume to be generally circulated, inasmuch as immoderate laughter sometimes ends in convulsions, and we have seen 10 such provocative of explosive mirth in this our day and generation. John Phomix is the very genius of fun, and elicits marriment from the driest subjects. We can recommend his sketches and burlesques to all persons of strong mind and vigorous constitution, who desire to be amused; but weak natures should be careful how they venture upon them. This domestic legend is founded upon actual events of comparative recent occurrence in the State of Kentneky. However strange the facts may appear in the sequel—however in conflict with what are usually supposed to be the sensibilities and characteristics of woman, they are yet unquestionably true, most of them having been conclusively established by the best testimony before a court of justice. Very terrible indeed was the tragedy to which they conducted—one that startled the whole country when it took place, and the meuraful interest of which will long be remembered.
